

Don't you know (It's only a game)

Knocking on doors that shouldn't be open,
running with the ones that do the same Who the hell cares where we're going, don't you know it's only a game

The girl no longer waits for me, goddess of fire long burnt out

Someone else has taken my place and they're living in my house

The good don't win and the bad don't lose about half the time you see

Don't you know it's only a game my friend, just like the lottery

Knocking on doors that shouldn't be open,
running with the ones that do the same
Who the hell cares where we're going, don't
you know it's only a game

Hi there. Would you like to play a game?

Terrence Michael Wall