

Steel and Lace

How am I to tell you
Of my dreams of steel and lace
Or the want I have for that look
On a face not yet a face
I see you in my dreams
More often than I care
Sometimes hair jet black
Or halo soft and fair
Waiting for you no hand in mine
As night begins to fall
This empty yearning feeling
Makes the silent call
I've passed you on the street
How were we to know
Time goes by the steel hardens
My need for your love grows
Not through the night till dawn's first light
Without your gentleness touch and grace
You're in my mind two hearts entwined
When the steel will bend with the lace
When the steel will bend with the lace
My arm gently around your waist
Two hearts can fly you're my reason why
The steel will bend with the lace

Terence Michael Wall