

Two as One

She holds on to his hand in the fading light
This man of hers that makes it all right
He's holding her's tight in a soft grip of steel
This woman he loves who makes it all real
Love tempered with seasons, bends with the wind
Cavessing with eyes, love from within
Two hearts together, gently interlaced
Two as one in this time and space
Celebrated the highs, together through the lows
So many years together, still the love grows
Two people as one in the fading light
Her with the man that makes it all right
He with the lady, the one ideal
This man of strength with the soft grip of steel
Gray around the edges, he looks with pride at this lady of his, with a love he can't hide
Two stars appear in the fading light
Shine down on these two, who make it all right
Love tempered with seasons, bends with the wind
Cavessing with eyes, love from within
Two hearts together, gently interlaced
Two as one in this time and space

Terrence Michael Wall